

Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 09 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Mainly dry overnight. Sunny and warm for most Thursday.

This Evening and Tonight:

Any lingering showers dying out this evening. Then a mainly dry night with clear spells towards eastern areas. Cloud patches in the west with some spots of rain possible, perhaps persistent over the hills. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Thursday:

Best of the weather in the east, with some sunny spells, although perhaps an isolated shower developing. Cloudier in the west with some outbreaks of rain possible. Warm. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

Cloud and spots of rain possible early Friday, drier later. Fine with long sunny spells Saturday and much of Sunday, perhaps cloudier later. Warm, but with overnight fog possible.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.